

Robert M. Van De Veire Appointed As Co-Chair of Securities & Exchange Committee at NYCLA

New York, NY (July 24, 2015) – Attorney Robert M. Van De Veire was recently appointed by New York County Lawyers Association (NYCLA) to serve as co-chair of their esteemed Securities and Exchanges Committee. Robert is an Associate at Malecki Law, where he primarily focuses on arbitration and litigation in the securities and banking industry. Over the years, Robert has successfully represented both individuals and institutions who have been victims of securities fraud and negotiated millions of dollars in settlements. In addition to investors, he also represents and counsels financial professionals who are the subjects of SEC or FINRA investigations, and those interested in filing whistleblower complaints under Dodd-Frank and other similar statutes.

NYCLA's Securities and Exchanges Committee provides an opportunity and forum for its members to come together to review recent developments in the regulation of securities at both the state and federal levels. The committee regularly organizes events for its membership and others to come together to hear from panels of leading practitioners in the securities field.

Robert brings a unique perspective to the committee through his work representing both investors in customer disputes and financial industry professionals in regulatory, employment and whistleblowing matters.

Outside of his practice, Robert has been active within the Public Investors Arbitration Bar Association (PIABA), serving on the Self-Regulatory Organization Committee, the Amicus Committee and as a regular columnist for the PIABA Bar Journal. He is also a member of, New York State Bar Association and the NYSBA's Securities Litigation and Arbitration Committee.
